Students' Rights and Responsibilities

The university subscribes to principles of due process and fair hearings as specified in the "Joint Statement on Rights and Freedoms of Students." This document can be found in the Division of Student Services. You are encouraged to read it carefully.

Most students adjust easily to the privileges and responsibilities of university citizenship. The university attempts to provide counsel for those who find the adjustment more difficult. UAF may terminate enrollment or take other necessary and appropriate action in cases where a student is unable or unwilling to assume the social responsibilities of citizenship in the university community.

STUDENT CODE OF CONDUCT

UAF students are subject to the Student Code of Conduct. In accordance with board of regents policy 09.02.01, UAF will maintain an academic environment in which freedom to teach, conduct research, learn and administer the university is protected. Students will benefit from this environment by accepting responsibility for their role in the academic community. The principles of the student code are designed to encourage communication, foster academic integrity and defend freedoms of inquiry, discussion and expression across the university community. Any student who violates the rights of others is prohibited. Students and student organizations are responsible for ensuring that they and their guests comply with the code while on property owned or controlled by the university or at activities authorized by the university.

The university may initiate disciplinary action and impose disciplinary sanctions against any student or student organization found responsible for committing, attempting to commit or intentionally assisting in the commission of any of the following prohibited forms of conduct:

- a cheating, plagiarism or other forms of academic dishonesty
- b forgery, falsification, alteration or misuse of documents, funds or property
- c damage or destruction of property
- d theft of property or services
- e harassment
- f endangerment, assault or infliction of physical harm
- g disruption of academic activities, including but not limited to:
 - 1. tampering with or destruction of records
 - 2. tampering with or destruction of property
 - 3. tampering with or destruction of equipment
 - 4. tampering with or destruction of facilities
 - 5. tampering with or destruction of information
 - 6. tampering with or destruction of data
 - 7. tampering with or destruction of software
 - 8. tampering with or destruction of hardware
 - 9. tampering with or destruction of electrical equipment
 - 10. tampering with or destruction of chemical equipment
 - 11. tampering with or destruction of laboratory equipment
 - 12. tampering with or destruction of library materials
 - 13. tampering with or destruction of other university property
- i failure to comply with university directives
- j misuse of alcohol or other intoxicants or drugs

- k violation of published university policies, regulations, rules or procedures
- l any other actions that result in unreasonable interference with the learning environment or the rights of others.

This list is not intended to define prohibited conduct in exhaustive terms, but rather offers examples as guidelines for acceptable and unacceptable behavior.

Honesty is a primary responsibility of yours and every other UAF student. The following are common guidelines regarding academic integrity:

- 1 Students will not collaborate on any quizzes, in-class exams or take-home exams that contribute to their grade in a course unless the course instructor grants permission. Only those materials permitted by the instructor may be used to assist in quizzes and examinations.
- 2 Students will not represent the work of others as their own. Students will attribute the source of information not original with themselves (direct quotes or paraphrases) in compositions, theses and other reports.
- 3 No work submitted for one course may be submitted for credit in another course without the explicit approval of both instructors.

The university judicial system and the criminal court system are two separate entities, and may come to separate and different conclusions regarding the same issue. Students will be afforded due process through university proceedings and are expected to abide by university decisions

As a result of disciplinary action, the university may impose one or more of the following sanctions:

This additional wording comes from BOR policy and is available elsewhere on the UAF website, but links in catalog are not active or not provided at all

Should a statement be made that possible felony offenses will be referred to criminal court system?
